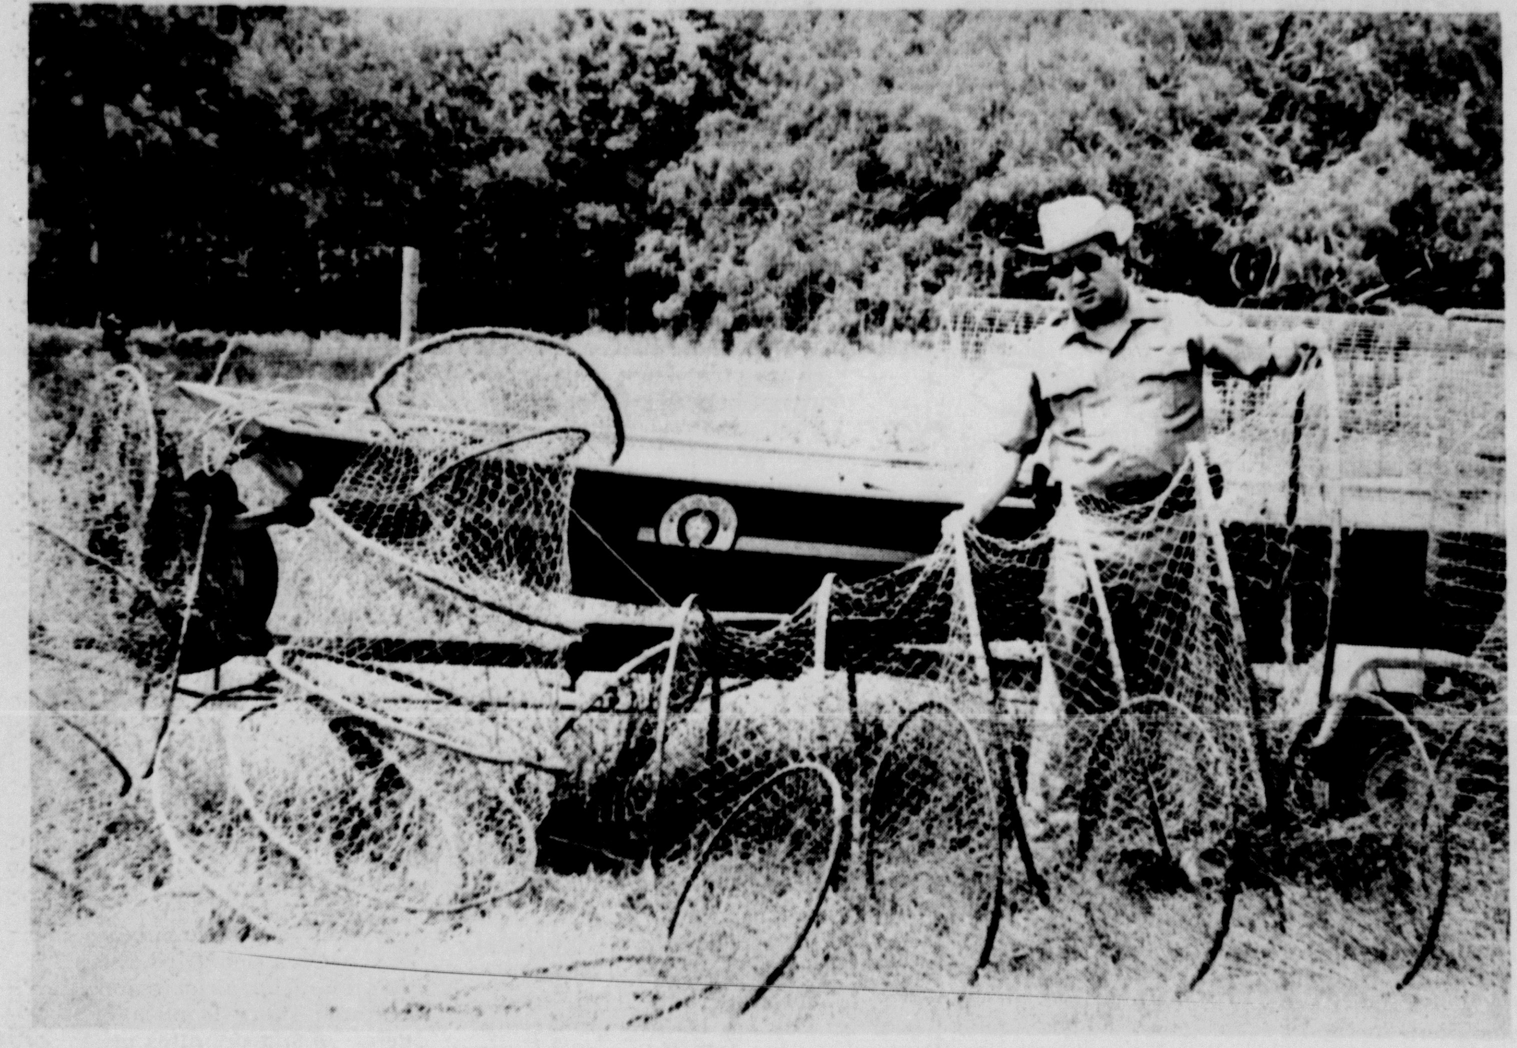
GONE FISHIN' -- Daylight Savings
Time Starts Sunday
See Box, This Page



ILLEGAL FISHING - Game Warden Dale Moore shows the wire traps and hoop nets he picked up from the Brazos River along with three area men who were fined $400 for the illegal fishing. Moore said this is the time of year when some fishermen are tempted to take the easy way, and warned that the fines are stiff for the violations.

City Hears Complaints

The city council meeting on Tuesday evening was well attended, with about 30 persons crowding into the firemen's hall to voice complaints and questions, ranging from street drainage to the running of the city swimming pool.

A number of Black citizens were on hand to question when something would be done about streets and drainage in their area. Another complaint was about a deep ditch formed when pipe was put under the railroad tracks north of 8th St., which wad declared a hazard to children.

A. W. McCullin explained that work for the area is in the city's third year community improvement program, and said nothing can be done about the ditch without affecting drainage in the area.

The citizens were told that a grievance committee meets each month to hear such complaints and they were urged to attend.

Albert Whiteside spoke about the fees charged for the city pool, claiming that it cost $1 for a child to swim. Later on in the meeting Water Supt. Alvin Hefft pointed out that the cost is 35 and 75 cents.

Mrs. Eunice Scott complained about dogs disturbing her sleep and was led downstairs by Police Chief Kent Butler to sign a complaint.

Grady Allen, Lone Star Gas manager, asked for final approval for a rate increase but Councilman Ernest Moore said the request did not show if money was lost by the company in Cameron under the present rates. He recommended denial of the increase unless the gas company shaves $5,000 off its request. If the gas company turns this down, the matter will go to the Railroad Commission.

Council voted to pass the first reading of an increase for TP&L pending action by the Public Utilities Commission, as requested by manager Larry Morrow.

Another complaint was about a carnival held on the west end of town which was situated about two feet from residential property. It was pointed out that such facilities need a permit and are not allowed to set up within 200 feet of a residential area. The carnival was told to leave by the police and the code inspector.

Rosemary Eichenhorst said she had an agreement with Hefft to run the city pool this summer but that he had given the post to Richard Raymond, who in the past had shared the pool with her. Hefft denied that any such agreement was made. Mayor Lawrence Zotz said the matter must be left up to the department head.

In other business, council voted to pay for light bulbs and bases for the men's slow-pitch softball league at a cost of about $149. They also approved purchase of a high speed teletype for the police department and agreed to take part in a program that would furnish a traffic officer with no cost to the city.

City Tax Rebates Increase 33% Over Last Year

Cameron has received $35,424.93 so far this year in sales tax rebates, including a refund this month of $4,336.19. The city's rebates are showing a 33 percent increase over last year, according to figures released this week by the Comptroller's office.

Comptroller Bob Bullock said his office has historically retained 4.76 percent of the cities' sales tax collections to cover refunds or bad checks. He said this amount has been reduced to 2 percent, so that cities now will receive nearly 3 percent more of their sales tax promptly for spending or investment.

The city of Buckholts has received $736.33 in rebates to the month of April while Lott has received $17,358 with a refund of $3,264 for this month. Rockdale's figures include a current refund of $4,660 to bring the year's total to $26,127. That city's increase is 14 percent over a year ago. Rogers showed a 5 percent increase with refunds totaling $2,064 to date.

NEW NUMBER 1....

Cameron emptied its clubhouseful of tennis talent on home courts Monday, hosting District 23-AA boys teams at City Park and O. J. Thomas Park courts.

Four freshmen, two sophomores and two seniors left the center courts a shambles for practically everybody in the District. They are a new No. 1.

Freshman Dow Dodd survived a three-setter over the No. 1 seed in the semi-finals and later took the Rockdale finalist in straight sets and the senior boys singles. It was his second tournament crown in two weeks.

Senior boys doubles was an all-Cameron final won by seniors Ted Dodd and Clay Kruse over sophomores George Sanders and Buster Miller in a long twilight two-setter.

Junior boys doubles team of freshmen Glen Glaser and Tim Mitchan reached the finals before losing in straight sets to an Elgin team.

And freshman Martin Luecke led the ultimate junior singles champion, a 6-foot eCaldwell junior, 4-3 in the third set before losing in the semi-finals, 6-2, 2-6, 4-6.

In a year when Yoe High School was still looking for a sports district championship, these young guys do what talent does. They win.

Not only class, but depth is beginning to tell. Last year, Cameron sent its first doubles team to regional in years, winning district runnerup in senior doubles.

This year, Cameron is sending both doubles teams to regional and Dow Dodd, the powerful frosh with the court savvy and size of a senior.

It was the second finals appearance in a junior doubles tournament for Glaser and Mitchan, who reached that level in Bryan a few weeks ago.

For Miller and Sanders, recent semi-finalists in Waco, it was a step into senior competition as sophomores, a move telling a lot about varsity doubles in Central Texas for the next couple of years.

Junior players go no further than district. Sanders and Miller as freshmen last year won the district junior title.

Luecke, 5-3 and 105, wire and all, is asserting a power game which has turned his scores around in the past month.

He crushed a Rockdale frosh Monday 6-0, 6-2, who had turned in two pro-set wins over him in dual matches, and forced the junior district titlist to three sets who had beaten him 8-0 early in the season.

Word is that a couple of players who dropped tennis this year already talk of rejoining the new District champions, quite likely the first team tennis title YHS has won since the place was built.

Word is also this 17-tournament match schedule has already raised YHS tennis calibre and sights beyond the limbo of UIL sports classification blinders.

The younger players themselves talk of dual matches with 4A schools next year. They are already in effect beating some.

So why not play the best? This bunch is not only learning how, but wants to, and inevitably, will.

Cameron can learn a lot more from this team than just tennis.

Cobb Reelected To Head School Board

Cameron school board president Calvin Cobb was reelected to another term at a regular meeting of the board Monday evening while Forrest Sapp was elected vice president and Bill Hornung reelected secretary.

Cobb and new board member Becky Magre were sworn in by Supt. Buddy Dulin at the start of the meeting after votes in the April 2 election were canvassed.

Cobb expressed appreciation from the board to Betsy Brown as she stepped down from her post as trustee.

A proposed school calendar for the next school year was tabled awaiting action by the Legislature on shortening the school year from 180 days to 174. The calendar proposed by Dulin would allow for a week's spring break for students at Easter time.

Resignations were accepted from Roy and Janet Knight, Rosemary Freeman and Terry Brannan, and a leave of absence was granted for Gaye Marburger.

Board approved commitment to the Region 6 Service Center after Dulin pointed out that school use of materials from the center is up five percent this year. The center provides films and other teaching materials and cost is $1 per ADA.

At a question from Carol Barr, Dulin said that meals for athletes on the road had been cut off, as the athletic budget is going over this year.

Dulin said state aid for Cameron schools will be down this year as the funds are based on average daily attendance (ADA) and the school's ADA is down this year.

He said the schools can borrow up to $40,000 if needed for special projects, such as renovating or building. He noted that the schools had paid for six buses, which had made a hole in the budget.

He said the schools had started the 1976-77 year with $87 in the bank, but expected funds will not be as tight at the beginning of the next school year.

Cobb suggested the board's holding a special meeting to study current needs and said he will call one soon.

Date for the next board meeting was changed to May 16.

Dedication Set For Youth Expo Building

Dedication cermony for the new Youth Exposition Building in Cameron has been set for May 7, according to Brenda Hoelscher, publicity chairman.

The building will be open at 10 a.m. with the program starting at 10:30. A guest speaker has been invited, and others on the program will be representatives of the FFA, FHA, and 4-H groups in the county.

"This building was built from contributions on a county-wide basis and it will be dedicated to Milam County youth," Hoelscher said.

Each FHA, FFA, and 4-H group in the county has been invited to have an exhibit or booth. There will also be livestock on exhibit in the livestock building.

Refreshments will be served and musical entertainment will be furnished by Thorndale High School.

"We invite everyone in Milam and surrounding counties to come and see what happens when everyone gets behind a project and works for it," Hoelscher added.

Disaster Survival Test Offered On 'Big Event'

What would you do if you were caught in a flash flood? If lightning struck the person at your side? If you were trapped in a beach house during a hurricane? If you were on a highway when a tornado struck?

Would you know how to survive--and how to prevent accidents that can occur during such disasters?

If not, you can learn by watching "The National Disaster Survival Test" on NBC-TV, Sunday, May 1, at 7 p.m. CST. Produced by Warren V. Bush in cooperation with the National Safety Council, the 90-minute "Big Event" will incorporate films of actual disasters, dramatic reenactments and interviews with survivors and survival experts.

Using a test format, viewers at home can compete with each other to see who knows how best to cope with emergencies.

TURN CLOCKS FORWARD FOR DAYLIGHT SAVINGS

Daylight Savings Time goes back into effect on Sunday, and clocks should be moved forward one hour on Saturday night.

This will hopefully result in another hour of daylight for such activities as lawn mowing, fishing, or gardening, if you are so inclined.

If you get confused, just remember the adage:

"Spring forward, Fall back."

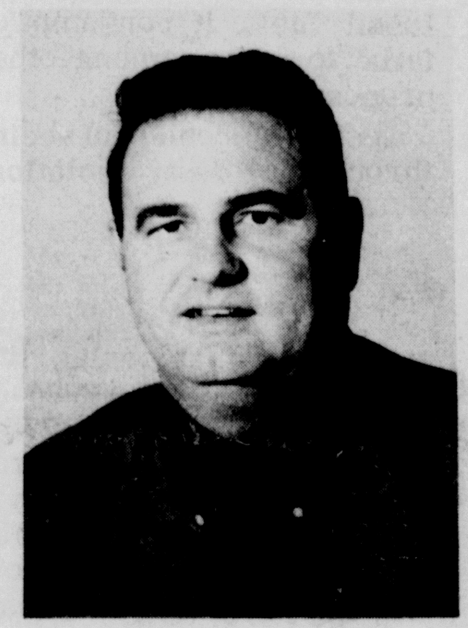
Gause Competing In Community Improvement Test

The Gause community will be judged in the District 10 community improvement contest on Tuesday, April 26 from 10 a.m. until noon.

The community will be competing with Littig in Travis County and New Berlin in Guadalupe County.

The three communities were selected by a district judging team based on the quality of record books completed for the contest this year, which started April 1, 1976 and ended on March 31 of this year.

The Texas Community Improvement Program is sponsored by electric utility companies operating in Texas and is conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service of Texas A&M University.



NEWLY AFFILIATED with the CDA is Thomas Dusek of Cameron, who will work in the rent supplement or Section 8 housing program on a part time basis. Property owners with rental property may contact Dusek at the CDA office.

Veterans Can Visit Van For Benefits Info

A mobile van manned by two veterans benefits counselors will be in Cameron on Friday to offer information and counseling services for veterans and their dependants.

The van will be located on the vacant lot south of the courthouse on Main and Fannin from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m.

Objective of the van program is to reach veterans and their dependants who are not taking full advantage of their benefits. They will have an opportunity to confer about educational programs, employment, job training, home loans, medical benefits, disability compensation, pensions, life insurance, death benefits, and other veteran-related benefits.

'Rock-A-Thon' Set To Benefit Cancer Society

The Yoe High School National Honor Society will sponsor a Rocking-Chair-A-Thon on Saturday, April 23, from 9 to 6 on the downtown mall in Cameron.

The money pledged will be donated to the American Cancer Society.

Anyone wishing to participate may pick up a pledge form at the school offices of Yoe High, O. J. Thomas, or Ada Henderson, or at either bank.

Three prizes will be awarded, including a prize for the person turning in the most money, the oldest person to rock and the youngest person.

Participants will be welcomed and pledges will be appreciated. There will also be live entertainment.

A Dusty Eye . . . .

One of President Carter's problems is trying to synthesize some sense out of the glut of energy problems which challenge cherished economic positions and popular mobility.

If we wait until natural resources wane, which they have in cheap domestic oil and gas, we turn national policy to the Mideast, to chance, to some kind of stoic view that "something will happen."

In this, Texas' 20th century view of itself already started to change in the early 1970's. It is now becoming an industrial state of the first order, getting larger.

The traditionalist views alarm in this. A massive industry shudders, but more wisely heads for the coal business, an interim stride to post-nuclear fusion and solar energy.

Coal then is a step backward, for the people who mine it, the customers who burn it, the environmentalists who oppose it. But it is a viable solution, a stage of retreat before the next step.

This President is leading us to coal as an alternative, to all but rationing of other fossil fuels if consumption fails to slow, among other proposals.

He has a problem of seeing through a dusty solution.

A Clear Head . . . .

One of the problems of those who consider their role to be "keepers of the faith", whether religious, political, economic or philosophic, is to keep a clear head about the efficacy of that faith.

To put that into plainer talk, the rules change, conditions change, people change. In fact, change is the only constant. And those dedicated to eulogizing the status quo or the past often see no role in the future, unless it is steeped in the past.

This country would have been hard put to have a revolution if the traditional view now of remembering that revolution had been the dominant view in the 1770's. An American Revolution would have fallen victim to memories of the rebellion against the English crown which precipitated the Magna Charta.

The sharp, even intuitive mind catches the sense of change before it evolves rather than after. Others only see change when the new effects, though perhaps only reruns of earlier experience, are dramatized.

To think clearly is not a fixed talent.

"Low Down" FROM THE Congressional Record

By JOE CRUMP

(A Column for Readers Who Haven't Time to Review the Congressional Record Daily)

REP. JAMES WEAVER (Oreg.)"...I move to suspend the rules and pass the Bill (H.R. 2521) to provide for the mandatory inspection of domesticated rabbits slaughtered for human food, and for other purposes...

"This legislation would extend USDA inspection services to the producer of domesticated rabbit meat...At the present time inspection is available for rabbit processing under a voluntary program in which processors pay for the services. This bill would require mandatory inspection of rabbit processing and assure the uniform certification of the wholesomeness of domesticated rabbits...

"Rabbit meat is similar to the white meat of the breast of chicken. In fact rabbit meat is higher in protein and much lower in fat and cholesterol than other red meats...The meat has a high meat-to-bone dressing percentage with the meat being 85 percent digestable.

"Three domestic rabbit does and one buck can produce more meat in a year than one cow, at less cost per pound of meat gained...

"Rabbit byproducts are important in the production of certain pharmaceuticals. For example, rabbit blood is reduced to plasma for diagnostic purposes while rabbit blood is reduced to plasma for diagnostic purposes while rabbit brains are used to produce thermo plastin for testing and coagulation of human blood in the laboratory...

"There is ample evidence that a significant percentage of the domesticated rabbit meat retailed in this country is imported, without USDA inspection from the People Republic of China, and is produced under questionable sanitary conditions. This bill would authorize spot checks of imports...

"What we have done is take the Poultry Inspection Act and changed the word "Feathers" to "Pelt." "Bird" is the equivalent of "Rabbit." We have used that Act to simplify it. Many rabbits today are processed in a chicken processing plant...

"From 6 to 20 million American consumers buy rabbit meat and through enactment of this legislation they will be assured that the meat they are buying in retail stores is wholesome, whether or not it has been imported or processed in the States..."(The Bill was passed and will become effective October 1,1977).

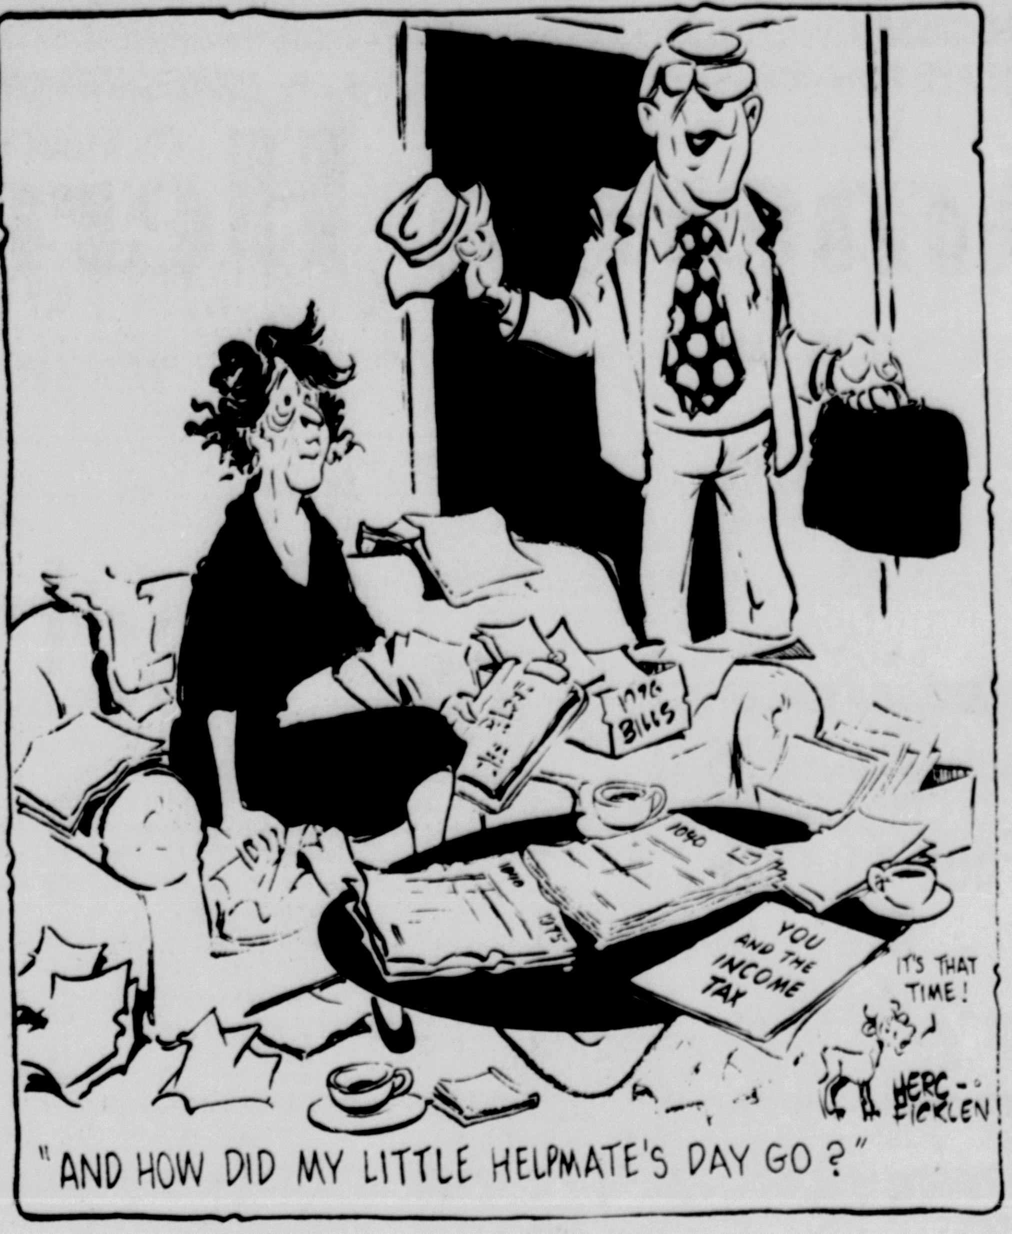
CRUMP'S GRASS ROOTS COMMENT

Captain Steve Dickerson of Engine Co. 59 and Rescue Co. 50, of the Jacksonville Arkansas Fire Department, recently won national recognition when his recipe for southern Fried Rabbit, was published in Firehouse magazine. The Fire Department invites everyone in the area to stop in for a real Southern treat.



"AND HOW DID MY LITTLE HELPMATE'S DAY GO?"

OLD PHILOSOPHER

Dear editor:

Of all the things I don't understand, one of the uppermost is Foreign Policy.

For example, recently Secretary of State Vance went to Moscow for a talk with Russian leaders and the meeting was termed a failure because Russia wouldn't agree to his proposals. Had she agreed, the meeting would have been hailed as a success, when everybody, especially Russia, knows Russia will keep an agreement with one country just just as long as a better agreement with another one doesn't come along.

I estimate that in the past 25 years at least 500 agreements between nations of the world have been signed, and 499 broken. The one that wasn't broken got lost in the files somewhere and nobody could remember what it was.

Foreign policy is like the tail fins Detroit used to put on cars. Nobody knew what they were for but everybody had to have some on his car.

Foreign policy is like fashions in clothes. What's in this year will be out next year, but what country wants to be out of style?

Most of the time, it looks to me, our foreign policy consists of signing an agreement on top of a table and passing money under it. When the money stops, the agreement is canceled.

I got to thinking. What would happen if all the countries of the world got together and agreed to abolish all foreign policies? Just do away with the things, on the grounds their cost-benefit ratio is out of line, they cost more than they gain.

Some people will argue it won't work, it'd leave the world's countries quarreling and snarling and ready to grab each other by the throat, with every nation arming itself to the teeth. We couldn't have that.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

Horse Racing, Equal Rights Debated

Debate raged before two legislative committees on familiar issues last week — horse racing and equal rights for women.

Horse race wagering advocates lost another bet in the House Intergovernmental Affairs Committee. Their bill to legalize betting at licensed tracks on a local option basis wound up in an unfriendly subcommittee for an expected minimum delay of about three weeks.

Even sponsors conceded a miracle will be needed to get the bill out of House committee — and it remains nowhere in the Senate, with adjournment deadline (May 30) closing in.

A resolution seeking recall of Texas legislative ratification of the federal Equal Rights Amendment got cold treatment after a warm hearing in the House Constitutional Amendments Committee.

Nearly 1,000 — one of the largest crowds to turn out for a 65th legislature committee hearing — attended the three and a half hour debate between proponents and foes of ERA.

When it was over, the resolution was packed off to sub-committee by a vote of 5-3.

Racing advocates claimed track betting would bring more revenue, more tourists and more jobs.

Opponents argued betting penalizes the poor, encourages off track gambling and leads to more law enforcement problems.

Anti-ERA spokesmen expressed fear of subjecting women to the draft, invalidation of laws protecting the fair sex, unisex restrooms and legalized homosexual marriages if the federal amendment is finally ratified by a sufficient number of states.

Rate Rehearing Asked

Insurance companies are seeking a rehearing of a State Insurance Board decision to lower property coverage rates 2.8 per cent effective July 1.

Texas Insurance Advisory Association filed the motion. The association claimed there is no evidence to support rates announced by the board March 25.

The association had recommended a 6.6 per cent increase in property policy rates. The board staff proposed a 1.7 per cent increase, but the board ordered a decrease relying on a rating formula utilizing actual company expenses rather than board estimates of expenses.

Aphids Bugging Home Gardens

By Bill McCutchen

A big red aphid has been causing alarm to Milam County home gardeners. This aphid is extremely large and is quite difficult to control chemically.

Sevin has little or no effect, and repeated applications of Malathion or Diazinon are need for control.

I have them on both Irish potatoes and tomatoes but lady bugs and lace wing fly nymphs are taking care of my problem without treatment.

If you have damaging insect populations in your garden, treat them but don't use chemicals as a preventative as beneficial insectsare excellent control measures in many instances.

A Private Applicator Certification meeting is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Monday, April 25th at the Vocational Agriculture classroom in Thorndale.

If you haven't attended a meeting for certification you are welcome to attend the Thorndale meeting next Monday night.

A Cotton weed control demonstration was established on Joe Vanza's farm last week. Dr. Dave Weaver, Kenneth Waites, and I put out some 18 plots of materials and mixes for preemergence weed control in cotton.

Results of these plots will be most interesting to cotton producers and results will be published later in the year. If it is convenient these plots may be included in the 1977 County Crops Tour.

Farmers Union Opposes Proposed Research Act

A group of farm leaders, representing various counties from across the state on the Texas Farmers Union board of directors, have unanimously stated that they hope the Administration will exempt agdiculture in any consideration of fuel taxes to discourage usage.

The farm group stated in a resolution that "the farmer is already the most efficient industrial consumer of fuels in America" and that any tax on his operating fuel "will only add to the cost of producing food and further inflation."

Texas Farmers Union also went on record as opposing two research and promotion groups, Cotton Incorporated and the proposed and soon to be voted on Beef Research and Information ~~aand Infor~~ farm organization alleges that once the act has been voted on by producers in a referendum and passed, all producer control and democratic representation are lost.

Said one spokesman, "These boards who gain control of the producers' dollars soon become dominated by special interest groups who do not necessarily represent producers. The undemocratic system is perpetuated by a lack of clear-cut criteria for determining who is a qualified special interest group; how many, if any, producers a group must represent; and whether each should get one vote regardless of its size.

"The end result is that a few groups manuever for control while the producer himself, and the fact that it is his money, are ignored. After the referendum vote there is not another democratic vote on anything by the producers. And there is insufficient review on a periodic basis of what the boards are doing with their money and power."

The Texas Farmers Union passed a resolution unanimously calling for a continued boycott of participation in Cotton Incorporated and the Cotton Board. All but one member voted in favor of urging beef producers to vote "no" in the beef referendum coming up

Farm·facts

Texas Department of Agriculture
Reagan V. Brown, Commissioner

What's Your Beef? ... Not So ... Wheat Crop Declines.

Texas livestock producers will be studying during the next several weeks the merits or demerits of a proposed beef check-off referendum.

Purpose of the proposal is to provide funds with which to improve the image of beef, provide research funds, market development programs, and producer information.

A deduction of .3 of 1 per cent (30 cents per $100 of sales) would be made at the producer level. This money would then go into a national fund. It would be administered by a beef board, to be made up of 68 livestock producers. About $35 million annually could be raised.

Producers who did not want to contribute their money can get it back by making a request for it.

The Beef Board membership is made up according to the number of livestock in each state. Texas will be allowed seven members on the board. Membership on the Board from other states ranges from 1 to 3.

You will get to vote on the proposal in the near future. But in order to vote you must register at your county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service office. To make the proposal effective, at least 50 per cent of those who register must vote, and of that number a two-thirds majority vote will be needed to put the plan into effect.

The program is designed to help the cattle industry by utilizing the check-off funds for research, promotion and education activities. It is a self-help program, similar to the cotton check-off program.

Recent Reports about farm prices going up do not jibe with Texas farm prices. The Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service notes that farm and livestock prices decreased less than 1 per cent during the past month.

The price of wheat continues to be an excellent example of the farm price situation as it affects producers. Wheat in Texas averaged $2.38 as of the middle of March, a month ago it was $2.42, a year ago it was $3.68 per bushel.

Cotton showed a slight increase; hogs were down about $2.40. Beef cattle were up slightly as were calf prices.

Wheat production in Texas is now projected to be eight per cent below a year ago and almost 30 per cent below the record crop in 1975.

The Texas production figure is now 95 million bushels. A nationwide forecast of wheat will be made May 10, based on May 1 conditions.

High Milk Support To Affect Prices

An increase in the government support price of manufacturing milk that is designed to help dairymen caught in the cost-price squeeze will bring some increase in consumer prices as well.

As of April 1, the support price for manufacturing milk is $9 per 100 pounds, up 74 cents from the price that prevailed the past six months.

From the consumer standpoint, prices of nonfat dry milk and cheese will go up about 5-1/2 cents per pound while butter will jump about 10 cents a pound. Fresh milk prices will likely increase about 1-1/2 cents per quart.

Mower Can Be Dangerous As Rattlesnake

The power mower has become a part of the Texas family scene, but it can be as dangerous as a coiled rattlesnake.

There's no refuting the labor-saving qualities of mowers, but they should be handled as carefully as you would a rattler, says Dudley J. Johnson, chief of the Consumer Health Bureau of the Texas Department of Health Resources.

Cuts, bruises and puncture wounds are typical of the injuries which the machines can inflict. The gasoline used to power these mowers causes fires which have killed people and burned down the homes of others, says Hohnson.

More than 50,000 adults and children are treated each year in hospital emergency rooms for injuries associated with power lawn mowers, says the US Consumer Product Safety Commission. These are the more serious injuries requiring medical treatment. There is no clear picture on the number of painful minor injuries treated at home.

Accidents can happen in many ways.

*Nancy was mowing long, wet grass when it became clogged in the discharge opening. When she tried to dislodge it, the whirling blades struck her fingers. One finger was amputated.

*Jim's father was mowing grass in a hickory tree grove. A nut struck by the blade ricocheted off the house and hit Jim, blinding the right eye.

* A man using a riding mower on a steep backyard terrace started a sideways turn. The machine rolled over. His left leg was so severely cut it had to be amputated.

*Mr. Smith was mowing a lot with a garden tractor when he backed up, striking his son who had been playing behind the tractor. The boy's left foot was amputated.

Do any of these accidents sound familiar?

They are accident patterns which are repeated time after time. These patterns are:

1. Contact with the rotating blade. This often occurs when the victim is clearing the discharge chute; when the victim adjusts the machine without turning it off and waiting for the blade to stop; or when the machine hits an obstacle such as a rock and the victim's foot slips under the housing.

2. Propelled objects--wire, rocks and twigs can be shot out either through the discharge chute or from under the housing. Many victims in these cases are bystanders.

3. Overturning--Riding mowers used on steep slopes are involved in this type of accident most often.

4. Mower running over the victim--This often occurs when a riding mower or garden tractor is being driven in reverse. Push type mowers are dangerous when the operator pulls the mower backward over the foot, or slips going uphill, allowing the mower to roll backward.

Experts at the Texas Department of Health Resources say that reel lawn mowers are safer than rotary lawn mowers, primarily because their blades move more slowly than those of rotary mowers. A common accident pattern with reel lawn mowers, however, is attempting to release the reel when it is jammed by a twig or other object without first shutting off the engine.

Since reel lawn mowers cannot cut tall grass efficiently, most consumers prefer rotary mowers. Almost 90 percent of all power lawn mowers manufactured each year are rotary mowers. Their blades can reach speeds of 200 miles per hour and can hurl objects 50 feet or more, unless the mowers are equipped with chute deflectors. If your mower has such a deflector, don't take it off and thereby invite an accident to happen.

Rosebud Legion Post Marks 55th Anniversary

The Rosebud American Legion is celebrating its 55th anniversary this month. It was in April of 1922 that the Rosebud veterans of World War I completed the organization of Unit 329, and named it for Brodie Lee Caywook, the only one of them who did not survive the war in France.

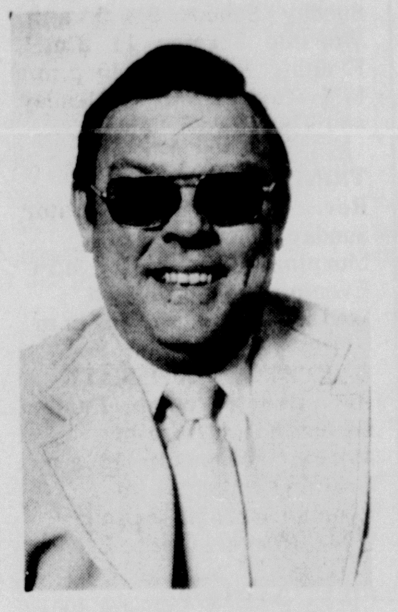
From 15 charter members, the Brodie Lee Caywood, Unit 329, of the Rosebud American Legion has grown to 107 active members, which include veterans from World Wars I and II and the Korean and Vietnam conflicts. The Unit has received many awards for going over its membership quota. One of its members--Ernest Ehler of World War II--has served the Unit as Post Commander for 16 consecutive years.

In celebration of this anniversary, the members are doing extensive remodeling of their Post, a building which has served as the Unit's meeting place since the early 1950's, when it--a former rural school building--was moved from Sneed-Kasner to the Rosebud American Legion Park located in the north part of Rosebud, while Leo Kahler was Post Commander.

The building houses a recreation room;, a large room for meetings of the Unit and its Auxiliary and for other socials sponsored by the citizens of Rosebud; two restrooms; and a kitchen. The recreation room and the large meeting room have been newly paneled and beautified with appropriate and colorful pictures. Plans are in the making to re-do the rest of the building this month. The entire building is air-conditioned.

Present officers are Fleming Summers, post commander; Billy Kahler, adjutant; Ivan Zatlukal, finance officer; Ed Meier, service officer; Byron Stubbs, chaplain; Hugh Latham, sergeant-at-arms; V. G. Pomykal, historian; and Hohn Killgore, child welfare officer.

The American Legion is a service organization and caters to the welfate of its members, all veterans in need of help, and the citizens of Rosebud and the surrounding area. Its primary object is to promote patriotic activities that will help to keep America great.



MANAGER - Alan M. Paulsen, mechanical construction manager of the company's lignite mining facilities adjacent to its Rockdale smelter. He will direct the erection of two draglines for use in Alcoa's accelerated mining program, and a lignite crushing station.

Grass Carp Illegal In Texas Waters

The grass carp is an illegal fish in Texas waters and the Parks and Wildlife Department has good reason for wanting to locate any infestations that may have slipped into the state.

Persons with knowledge of a so-called vegetation-eating fish being imported from anywhere, but mostly from Arkansas, should contact a P&WD office, game warden or a fishery biologist immediately.

The department received earlier reports of several importations and has worked with pond owners to eliminate the stockings.

The grass carp, known also as the white amur in its native range in eastern Asia, is being promoted by commercial interests as a sure cure for noxious vegetation in farm and fish ponds.

However, studies in other parts of the country have shown that if the fish does get widely distributed and develops a capacity to reproduce, Texas faces a potential disaster. This could mean invasion of irrigated fields and consumption of planted crops.

TP&L Has New Coal Reserves

Texas Power & Light Company's new affiliate, Chaco Energy Company, has completed a lease agreement for over 200 million tons of sub-bitumnous coal reserves located in New Mexico. Other lease agreements covering over 200 million tons of coal in the same area were acquired in January, 1977.

In addition to these rights, totaling over 400 million tons to a depth of 150 feet, options are held on additional reserves below the 150 foot level.

These coal deposits are located in McKinley and San Juan Counties in northwest New Mexico. Coal production is scheduled to begin in the early 1980's. Environmental impact studies have been underway for some time and are expected to be completed in the near future. An extensive land reclamation program is a part of the operation's planning.

"This is another step in our long-range plan for TP&L to have readily available the fuel supplies necessary to meet the electricity demands of our customers," said J. F. Skelton, President of TP&L. "As recently as 1971, 100% of our kilowatt-hours were generated by the use of natural gas. In 1976, lignite coal fueled more than 30% of the kilowatt-hours generated. By late 1978, lignite is expected to be used for more than 60% of TP&L's generation. By 1985, we estimate we will be producing only 25% of our electricity with natural gas and oil, with 75% generated by lignite, nuclear and coal," Skelton added.

Texas Power & Light Company and Chaco Energy are subsidiaries of Texas Utilities Company.

The Big Story
Dean and Dash: Both Have

This busy reporter is hammering out an important news story. Perhaps he is reporting a bank robbery . . . or the threat of war . . . or a major disaster, like an earthquake or a famine. The reporter is working against time. He has to get this story in the next edition; and he has to have the facts.

Good reporting is an essential element of our democratic society. It is a highly specialized craft. Reporters and the rest of the newspaper staff must all blend into a dedicated, hard-working team. They must be an alert band of men and women on the job around the clock — ready at a moment's notice.

Most newspaper stories come to a conclusion. They soon lose their "news" value, and become history.

But one of the greatest stories of all time is ever fresh . . . ever relevant. It is the story of God's great Gift to man . . . the story of a promise of life after death. Through the life of Jesus Christ, through the Holy Scriptures and through the Church, we can hear this story forever, knowing that the greatest story ever told is NEWS today.

Yoemen Fall To Tigers 3-2

The Cameron Yoemen baseballers found the going a bit tougher than their 13-0 victory over the Rockdale Tigers in the Tigers home tourney, as the Tigers outscored the Yoemen in the final game of first round district action 3-2 in Rockdale Tuesday

The Tigers wasted no time getting on the scoring trail, marking up two runs in the bottom half of the first inning. Frankie Flores led off the Rockdale attack with a single to left field, then reached home from second base on a single by Randy Morgan. Morgan picked up on the scoring action, scoring on a Yoemen error, to put the Tigers ahead 2-0.

It was the top of the third inning when the Yoemen got it all together and got back in the ball game. David Rinn reached base on an error by the Tigers short stop, then came across the plate for the Yoemens' first score. Rinn's sprint was aided by a third baseman error. The Yoemen had narrowed the Tigers edge 2-1.

The Tigers scored their third and final run in the bottom of the third inning, Tiger Jack Thomson reached base on an error, then scored on a fielders choice by Mike Donahue, and the Tigers were back in command 3-1.

The Yoemen were not to be denied at least one more run, and it came in the top of the fourth, Joe Reyes led off with a double, then Stephen Hollas stepped to the plate, singling to bring Reyes home for the score.

The Yoemen threatened, in the top of the seventh, as pinch hitter Ray Moraw singled with a hard hit, but with two outs the Yoemens' time ran out and they dropped it to the Tigers 3-2.

Gerry Heitman took the loss for the Yoemen, tossing eight strikeouts for the day.

Frankie Flores was Rockdales' man on the mound, winning the game, pitchingj winning the game, pitching only two strikeouts.

Two early errors was the word from Coach Roy Knight. "We played pretty good but our two early errors just kept us out of the game. Knight cited David Rinn, Don Komar and Ray Moraw as the standouts for the day, all putting in a fine effort at the plate.

The Yoemen are even up at 3-3 in district action, while the win brought the Tigers to 2-3 in district action.

The Yoemen will be back in action Friday as they travel to Hearne to battle the Hearne Eagles in the District 23AA second round opener.

Bullock Seeks Second Term

Comptroller Bob Bullock, saying he has made good his promises to rebuild the Comptroller's office and corral tax cheaters, Friday formally announced for re-election.

Citing accomplishments already done, Bullock said he wants a second term to make further improvements in the office and to "see that all taxpayers and their money are treated with fairness, common sense and courtesy."

"I have done exactly what I said I would do," Bullock said. "I said the office was dead and we brought it to life. I said it was losing money and we stopped that."

Bullock said he is "proud of the record of my first term to date, but I want to see an even better brand of public service from the office during the next four years."

He said the taxpayers of Texas have benefited by the millions of dollars from his work in collecting old delinquencies, speeding up city sales tx payments, auditing out-of-state firms doing business in Texas, and "generally being more responsive to the needs of all taxpayers."

"Our new programs have paid off in both dollars and service," he said, noting that the office in 1976 alone brought in $82 million more than had been expected under the previous administration's programs.

Bullock said that beefing up the Comptroller's office "has been the best investment of tax money ever made" and noted that his out-of-state auditors are producing $15 for every $1 spent on them and that overall enforcement and collection programs bring in $10 for every $1 spent.

He said that sales tax collections under his administration in 1975-76 increased 29 per cent over 1974 while the average increase nationally was only 17 per cent, including other growing states like California where the two-year increase was less than 17 per cent.

"We have kept the commitment to bring home the bacon by making sure that everyone pays the taxes he honestly owes -- not a cent more or a cent less," Bullock said.

The 47-year-old Bullock won his first term as Comptroller in 1975 by carrying 253 of the state's 254 counties against two Democratic primary opponents and going on to whip a Republican in the general election.

Bullock has previously served as Secretary of State and as a member of the Texas House of Representatives from Hillsboro, his hometown. He is a graduate of Texas Tech and Baylor University Law School and served in the Air Force in the Korean conflict.

PROTECTING YOURSELF AGAINST LOSS

TIPS TO HELP YOU

This information has been supplied by experts at The Society of Chartered Property & Casualty Underwriters, the national professional society whose members have earned the CPCU designation by meeting high educational, ethical and experience requirements.

Q. My wife's poodle (he's just a puppy) has good taste. He loves to chew on leather and suede. I was wondering if my homeowners policy would cover us if our little pet happened to take a bite out of my boss's new leather coat?

A. Yes, it does. If your boss's coat is damaged while hanging in your closet, you would be covered for his garment under the terms of your homeowners insurance policy.

And, if your pet poddle happens to accidentally trip your boss as he's running to complain about the mysterious hole in his new leather coat, your homeowners policy also provides for medical treatment of the injured guest.

4-H CLUB NEWS

There's plenty in store for Texas 4-H members this year, says Jeannine Callahan, a 4-H and youth specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Beginning in late April, 4-H representatives go to the nation's capital to attend the National 4-H Conference. At this time members can make major program recommendations for the 4-H program.

More 4-H'ers can visit Washington, D.C., in June and July for the National Citizenship Short Course and Heritage Tour. The youth can visit numerous historical sites and also have an opportunity to visit their congressmen.

Other 4-H'ers in Texas begin the summer months with Texas 4-H roundup. More than 1,200 4-H'ers statewide come to the campus of Texas A&M University to meet new friends and show off their skills in more than 40 project areas --from rifle safety and public speaking to horse judging and child development. Everyone at Roundup is a winner, contends Miss Callahan.

July is time for the annual Texas 4-H Congress. This year 4-H'ers will gather in Corpus Christi for the week-long event to study "Oceans of Oppurtunity." Activities will include tours, exhibits, tasting festivals, music, dance and much more.

The summer is also an ideal time to study ecology, go on nature hikes, and enjoy water sports and lots of other exciting activities. The summer camping program at the Texas 4-H center provides for all of this and more, adds Miss Callahan. Equipped with the latest in dining and sleeping facilities, the Center overlooks beautiful Lake Brownwood on a 78-acre site.

Fall brings record books-- an activity in which most 4-H'ers are involved to learn record keeping, evaluate goals, and measure accomplishments.

The State Fair of Texas in October helps 4-H'ers celebrate fall with Rural Youth Day; that means free entrance for all 4-H'ers to the fairgrounds in Dallas.

For one week in October, 4-H'ers celebrate National 4-H Week. Parades, floats, festivals, radio and TV appearances, and exhibits all help to spread the news about the largest youth organization in the nation.

Throughout the year 4-H'ers take part in club meetings, projects of their choice, committee work, and other local activities to plan and carry out programs of interest to them.

If you are between 9 and 19 years, you can join 4-H and have the time of your life, contends Miss Callahan. For details, contact your county Extension office.

'Oklahoma Pros' Learn Technique

By KEITH FLOYD

I picked up an advertisement for a national bass fishing publication recently and was greeted with the bold headline, "Read our magazine and we'll have you fishing like a pro in ten minutes."

That may be true if fishing like a pro is defined as holding the rod at the grip rather than at the tip, and casting your lure into the water rather than onto the bank!

However, I doubt that within 10 minutes of reading anything that you would be in the fish catching league of Bill Dance, Don Butler or Roland Martin. That statement also registered in my mind that we term some fishermen as "Pros." Just what is a pro, and how does that term apply to fishermen?

In general terms we think of a professional as an individual who makes his living from a chosen profession. If we approach competitive fishing with that definition in mind, and consider solely the winnings earned in bass tournament, then if there are any professionals in fishing they are having a hard time putting groceries on the table.

However, if we consider a professional fisherman to be one who derives his livelihood from the fishing industry rather than from competitive fishing, then there are some true professionals. Included in our state would be some we know like Jim Houston of Tahlequah; Don Butler and Joe Kreiger of Tulsa; Roland Martin, formerly of Tulsa; Butch Hudkins of Broken Bow; Dean Corbett of Afton; Don Wallace of Oklahoma City and Ken Cook of Apache, to name only a few.

These individuals have spent countless hours in pursuit of fishing techniques, and could honestly be classified as "Oklahoma Pros."

It should be noted that there are numerous individuals who are not associated with the fishing industry, but who also possess the knowledge of fishing which is only gained through years of experience. If you want to learn the techniques employed by these individuals, you need to get next to one of them. Observe him at close range and try to copy every detail of his technique.

Around Altus there are some fellows we've observed who catch a lot of fish. In this local group would be Craig Jackson, Glenn Jackson, Gene Copeland, Lee McConnell, R.D. Price, Glenn Royal, Bill Wise and Gene Copeland, just to name a few. There are many more. You probably know others.

If you really want to learn the secret of those five percent of the fishermen who catch the vast majority of the fish, get next to one of them.....

'Nothing Fancy'

By KEITH FLOYD

Does it take a lot of fancy equipment to catch a bass or any other species of fish?

You'd think so, judging from all the gear today's avid fishermen use. High priced rods and reels, special boats, troll motors, depth finders, temperature gauges, and on and on.

But take my word for it, you don't need all that gear to catch a mess of fish.

I had been watching Altus High's track team work out a few days ago, and was on my way back to the office, when a friend stopped me and suggested we run out to a farm pond not far from town and do some fishing.

I didn't have any rods and reels with me, since I didn't think there would be time to fish that day, but not being one to pass up a chance to dabble a hook. . .

He offered me his rods and reels but I decided against it, because there was something I'd been wanting to try.

We stopped at a discount store on the way out of town and I bought a 14-foot cane pole for $2, some split-shot sinkers for about 25 cents, a small spool of 15-pound monofilament line for about 50 cents and some 2-0 hooks for about 35 cents. Total investment was a little over $3.

When we got to the pond, I borrowed a few small plastic worms.

I tied about five feet of mono on the cane pole. At the end of the line I tied on one of the 2-0 hooks, then crimped a split-shot sinker on the line just above the hook. A purple plastic grub went on the hook.

This particular pond was small. The drought had reduced what normally was a two-acre pond to about an acre. The shallow water around the edge was covered with moss.

Just outside the moss, the water was about three feet deep.

I eased along the bank and used the cane pole to reach just outside the moss and drop the worm along the edge of moss.

We fished only about an hour and a half or two hours until dark, but in that time I landed three bass, the largest weighing about two pounds.

My buddy, who was in a float tube and using shiners, caught only one bass (but he also caught a two-pound channel catfish and two turtles).

The point is that the cane pole was, in this particular instance, just about as perfect a piece of fishing gear as I could have carried.

It was just long enough to reach over the moss, and was perfect for "dabbling" the plastic worn exactly where the bass were hiding — in the shade of the moss.

It was a bright, sunny day, the kind of day you're not supposed to find bass in clear, shallow water.

I think there are probably many other times when such a rig would be effective on bass. In fact, just about any time you could fish fairly shallow water, the cane pole would be useful.

The reason is simple. It lets you fish the worm in the most effective way — straight down. In this manner, the worm can be "jigged" on the bottom, it can be dragged slowly back and forth in one spot, or it can be "trolled" slowly along the vegetation.

With a rod and reel, this type of fishing is difficult. The rod isn't long enough, normally to dabble the worm. And there's always the tendency to want to cast, just because a reel is on the rod.

But with the cane pole, it's easy to work the worm slowly and carefully around the heavy vegetation.

I'm going to try it again. I've "rediscovered" a great way to catch bass with a plastic worm.

Some Thoughts on Trophy Mounts

About the Author

WENDELL WHITE is the owner of Trophy Taxidermy in Oklahoma City and is one of the only full time taxidermists in our state. He's a friend of ours and his customers, who can be found all over Oklahoma, will attest that his work is strictly quality. The Times-Democrat welcomes Wendell's comments and we're most appreciative of his tips for our special Outdoor Section.

Special to the Altus Times-Democrat

Another fishing season is upon us, and that old bucket mouth is lurking in your favorite fishing hole. If you are successful this year in hooking that hawg, here are a few hints to keep your trophy in good shape until you can get him to a taxidermist.

First of all, don't throw your fish into the boat, ice chest or live well. For any fish that you tend to have mounted, wrap it immediately in a towel or wet cloth and put it on ice until you can get it to a taxidermist or a freezer. Freezing a trophy for several months will not hurt it, but cutting or gutting your fish will rip out scales that cannot be replaced. It is also very important not to let the fish dry out.

Now, some folks would rather eat their big fish than have it on the wall as a reminder of the exciting memories of their catch. Many folks don't realize that you can have your fish and eat it too, to paraphrase an old saying. A good taxidermist can skin your fish and give you the meat while you wait if they are not too busy at the time and if they have a mold to fit your fish. At our shop we carry a large number of molds.

You will probably want the taxidermist to leave the original gills in the fish to give it that "alive" look. Fish such as Trout, Catfish and some ocean types are greasy and will not hold paint well, so these fish have to be mounted with artificial gills or with the gills closed.

I know many bass fishermen are hunters, too, so a few words on birds and animals may be in order. One common practice I don't understand is cutting the game's throat. That is unnecessary and damages a trophy. If the animal is gutted within a minute after it is taken this is sufficient drainage.

If you think you might get an elk, deer, antelope, sheep or goat next winter here are a few words on saving the head for a shoulder mount.

The animal need not be stuck for bleeding if it has been shot with a high powered rifle or broad arrow and is bleeding profusely from the wound, or if you hit him in the heart or lungs.

When skinning this type mount, make one cut around the body behind the front legs, then cut down about three inches on each front and pull the skin up over the neck as if you were pulling off a sock. Then cut the neck off at least half way. Pour plenty of salt on all exposed skin and keep it cool. If no salt is available just keep it as cool as possible, for it takes only a couple of hours for spoilage to set in and cause hair slippage. If the temperature is above 50 degrees the spoilage can happen much sooner.

Birds are quite simple to mount. Select your birds carefully, for birds that are shot up badly do not mount well. Broken wings or legs are not so much of a problem to repair, but feathers that are shot away or broken are most difficult.

When you take a bird that you want mounted, wrap it in a dry, clean cloth and keep it cool until you get it to the taxidermist. If you do not want it mounted right away, put it in a plastic bag and freeze it. By all means do not gut or cut the bird in any way because this will make unnecessary rips in the skin.

Taxidermy is an art and a good job takes a lot of time. A good taxidermist will treat every trophy as if it were his own and will not rush the job and spoil the effect. Proper cleaning and preparation are essential before the subject can be mounted. Drying time takes anywhere from two weeks to two months depending on the trophy and its size. Color restoration takes several hours per mount and the tanning process has one of the longest periods, sometimes taking 7 to 8 months. So be careful if you are told that your mount can be ready in a very short time...someone may not be doing something right.

If you have time, stop by and talk to a taxidermist and look at his work. When you have your mount, an occassional dusting will keep it looking new for a long time. Never use oily dusting products or high powered vacuum machines on your trophies and always dust with the feathers, fur or scales and never against.

Your trophy is something to be proud of and if it is properly mounted it should last a lifetime. Treat it as you would any showpiece and never place it where there is extreme heat, cold, direct sunlight or where pets, or persons may handle it excessively.

If you do get ol' bucket mouth this year, remember these tips, and keep him for years to come right there with you on the wall to recall the thrill of your catch.

Bass Fishermen Now Taking to Johnboats

MONTGOMERY, Ala.—Less than a year ago, finding a bass tournament "pro" who fished from a johnboat would have been as unlikely as discovering Farrah Fawcett smilin' in your bathtub.

Now, however, a growing number of bass fishermen and tournament anglers, who once opined that johnboats were just for "perch jerkers" and "runnin trotlines," are discovering the advantages of the modern aluminum bass boats. The era of the "Super Aluminums" is here, and it's making its debut in grand style.

Super Aluminums are best described as plush johnboats with bass fishing designed interiors. Standard equipment generally includes all-weather carpeting, paddled pedestal bow and stern fishing chairs, and various fishing gadgets. Add to these an outboard motor (up to 50 horsepower), plus such essential accessories as a sonar depthfinder and 12-volt electric trolling motor, and you've got a Super Aluminum, which in its element, is really a super fishing machine.

Fully rigged for bass fishing, including a 35-horsepower outboard, and ready to roll on a sturdy trailer, these jazzed-up johnboats cost less than $3,700. And, they're easily affordable to a larger segment of the fishing public, who can't shipwreck the family budget for a $6,500 plus big bass buggy with a gas-guzzling, high-horsepower engine.

Although several major boat manufacturers have offered aluminum hulls in their lines for a number of years, it's only in recent months that Super Aluminums are beginning to climb in popularity. Lightweight economy and cheaper operation in the face of today's rising gasoline costs are obvious reasons for their growing appeal.

Probably the strongest testimonial to these newer aluminum rigs' fishability is the selection of a Super Aluminum as the official boat for the B.A.S.S. Champs Tournament, a "Pro Bowl Of Bass Fishing," on April 13, 14, 15, at Percy Priest Lake near Nashville, Tenn. The $30,000 event is sponsored by the Bass Anglers Sportsman Society, a 265,000 member fishing organization that conducts a $500,000 pro Tournament Trail across the country each year. The B.A.S.S. Champs Tournament matches the top stars from the pro cast-for-cash cirduit against the best "amateurs" from te Bass Club ranks. [illegible] features, the new face-lifted aluminum bass boats are gaining appeal with numerous bass tournament professionals because of their shallow-water capabilities.

"These super johnboats are going to play a much more important role in future bass tournaments—and bass fishing in general—chiefly because you're able to maneuver in many places a larger, heavier, fiberglass rig can't enter," says John Powell, a veteran Montgomery, Ala. basser, who has won three major BASS titles.

The way Powell, a noted shallow-water expert who some say will try to fish even a "flooded cow track," reasons, "A guy fishing from a lighter johnboat is going to have a vast amount of fishing waters all to his lonesome. Since the big rigs can't reach these fishin' waters, your chances of placing in a bass tournament or finding some untouched fishin' thrills are going to be more in the favor of the fellow in the ol' johnboat."

"The advantages of fishing from these type boats haven't been considered by a lot of tournament anglers," says Bill Dance, a seven time BASS winner and the leading contender for the 1977 Bass Angler-of-the-Year point title. "But, those who've had the opportunity to fish from a Super Aluminum return to the ramp amazed at its stability, comfort, and maneuverability. They're real 'comers' to bass fishing," opines Dance, a Memphis, Tenn.-based basser, who uses an aluminum rig to fish the backwaters off the Mississippi River and the upper ends of heavily timbered reservoirs.

Tournament bass fishermen aren't the only anglers who appreciate the versatility of these newly designed super johns. Weekend anglers as well are discovering the angling advantages of this face-lifted version of a hull old-timers have been enjoying for fishing decades.

In addition to a very affordable price tag, fully-equipped super johnboats are economical in various other ways. You can run their relatively small outboards all day on six gallons of gas, and trailing the lightweight rigs cost considerably less in auto gasoline expenses than hauling their heavier counterparts.

Also, since a 12-volt electric trolling motor is ample even on windy days, owners don't have to buy more than one battery for their rigs, resulting in a savings of about $100, when you consider that many purchasers of big bass boats need three batteries for their outboard-trolling motor system.

Accessibility is another built-in bonus for Super Aluminum owners. They're easy to pull on the highway, can be launched almost anywhere, and are a snap to weave in and out of the tightest spots on a timber-filled lake. They're also great for fishing a pond or floating a river or stream.

About the only recognized disadvantage of these newer super johnboats is their inability to handle rough water. They're a protected-water rig, and only the very foolish attempt to run 'em across a churning, white-capping big impoundment.

However, no matter how bad the weather, every body of water has protected, calm-water coves, sloughs, or wind-free banks. So, while long distance travel on a lake may be restricted when the main lake is white-capping, the boss of a super johnboat isn't grounded.

Today's prevailing BASS tournament tactics involve fishing for quantity (the daily limit), not necessarily quality (lunkers). Using this logic, the majority of bass tournament anglers choose to concentrate their efforts primarily in mini-depths where bass, although often smaller in size, are easier to find and catch.

The 20 contenders in the B.A.S.S. Champs tournament on Percy Priest's 14,000 acres will be rigged out in identical 16-foot Super Aluminums powered by 35-horsepower Johnson Outboards engines. The B.A.S.S. Champs boat was made to B.A.S.S. specifications by DuraCraft of Monticello, Ark., one of the country's oldest builders of aluminum boats. The "bass boat" model was designed by Ray Scott, president of Bass Anglers Sportsman Society (BASS).

Tube Fishing Called Purest Form

By Don Wallace
Special to the Altus Times-Democrat

Tube fishing is one of the purest forms of sport fishing. I remember back when I was a disc jockey working six days a week. On my day off I'd be out promoting teen hops, and driving all over the state, or I'd be playing chairty basketball games, promoting events at the state fair, or working destruction derbies.

Those promotions result in a certain amount of pressure. So when I got off work in the evening, sometimes I would just grab my tube and head for a small lake or pond and really get away from it all. I don't know of any type of fishing that is more relaxing or that has the calming effect that you experience when you're out tube fishing. You can get away from every pressure and every problem in the world. You're all by yourself and you feel like you're alone with God and the world. I've got nothing against boats but somehow the noise and churning of the outboard and the wake of a boat seems so out of place on a small body of water.

The tube is tremendously effective because a bass will not spook nearly as easily when a man approaches in a tube. You can actually get right on top of a bass without alarming him. Another advantage of the tube is the cost factor. You can spend around $60 and be completely outfitted for tube fishing. As you boaters know, that sum will barely buy a spare tire for your bass boat. You can also fish and maneuver in ponds and small lakes that are so far removed from civilization that it would be impossible to bring in a boat. Tubing gives you the super-silent approach that is not possible when you walk the banks either.

Of course the tube is not designed for large impoundments. However, the combination of a boat to cover the big water and a tube to squeeze into thick timber can be a deadly combination on our big lakes.

The tuber can use virtually any type of tackle and be effective. In years gone by I used a lot of spinning gear but now my standard is a medium action rod, 15 to 20 pound test line, and a free-spool reel. If I'm fishing a small lake or pond that has little brush or cover, I enjoy the ultra-lite equipment. However, many of these small water are laced with brush. Although I release a large percentage of the bass that I catch, I want to catch the fish and release him unharmed without the lure hanging in his jaw. I think this is a point worth making. It's far more sporting to land a bass on adequate tackle and release him unharmed than to play one for an eternity on ultra-lite gear and have him break off with the lure embedded in his mouth. I try to carry a variety of lures with me in my tube. A small vinyl box that straps to the tube is handy for this purpose. You may want to try something from top water to plastic worms.

Some people are apprehensive about the safety of tube fishing. For years I fished from a tube without wearing a life preserver. That was a mistake! I wear one now. Even though I feel that a person is safer in a tube than in a boat I still wear the life preserver for extra safety. Also I am occassionally asked if its not dangerous to be out in the water if the lake or pond has quite a few snakes. It's been my experience that if you leave the snakes alone they will leave you alone. They'll swim right by you and not bother you in the least.

As far as waders are concerned, some people like the stocking foot waders which are worn with tennis shoes Personally, I like the chest high boot waders. The paddle pushers which strap on your feet are a necessity if you are to be able to manuever. If you're new at tubing you'll soon learn not to get in a hurry. As a result you will fish each area more thoroughly, thus increasing your chances of scoring with Mr. Bass!

If you want to start tubing and need some advice, go right to the source. Talk to someone who is an experienced tube fisherman.

Places to tube fish are countless. There are many conservation Lakes in Oklahoma that few people know about. You can find out about these lakes by calling the agriculture Stabilization and Conservation County Committee listed under U.S. Government offices in the telephone directory. They will give you a list of these lakes that will tell you where they are located. Most of these are free to the public. You need only check with the land owner when you arrive. Also be sure to treat this property with the respect it deserves and you will be welcome the next time you want to go tubing.

If you are a beginning tuber, you have a treat in store when you hook that first big bass and he heads for the other end of the lake. A 5 pound bass will acutally drag the tube after him on one of these runs. The sensation experienced is like none other in fishing. It's also a great thrill when that bass breaks water right in front of you and tail walks across the surface.

If you've been considering investing in a tube but had some reservations, I hope this article has convinced you to join Oklahoma's army of tubers. And, it uses absolutely no gas!
